SALES STRATEGY FOR JAPANESE BROKERS & INTERNATIONAL INVESTORS

Affordable luxury. Quality over quantity.

Fewer residences. More lifestyle amenities. Better attention to detail. Competitive entry prices.

1. Sell the developer's philosophy, not just the apartment

IMAN Developers is a boutique developer focused on quality over quantity. Unlike developers that deliver thousands of units, IMAN concentrates on a limited number of carefully designed residential developments: an attractive choice for investors who want a premium residential product without entering the ultra-luxury price segment.

2. Use IMAN's delivery record to build trust

For international buyers, especially those buying remotely, the developer's delivery history is essential. Completed buildings let buyers judge the actual finishing quality, common areas and lifestyle amenities.

> “ With IMAN Developers, you're not investing based only on architectural renders. You're investing with a developer whose completed projects demonstrate its approach to quality and lifestyle.

3. What affordable luxury actually means: not cheap construction, a premium experience at a competitive price

The arrival experience

- Impressive entrance lobbies
- Double-height ceilings in selected developments
- Elegant materials, colours and details
- Thoughtful access and circulation

The apartment experience

- Spacious, practical layouts
- Ceilings of about 3.2 m in selected designs
- Quality finishes and materials
- Modern interior and exterior architecture

The lifestyle experience

- Swimming pools
- Fitness and wellness facilities
- Relaxation and family spaces
- Rooftop amenities; several amenity areas in selected projects

> “ The difference with IMAN is that luxury starts from the moment residents enter the building, not only when they open their apartment door.

4. Turn boutique scale into an investment advantage

- A more intimate residential environment
- A stronger sense of privacy
- A distinctive architectural identity
- Thoughtfully allocated lifestyle spaces
- A different living experience from high-density developments

IMAN's 2026 boutique pipeline (Oxford Cove, 113 Residences and the upcoming Dubai Science Park development) is about 550 homes in total.

> “ IMAN doesn't focus on maximising the number of apartments. It focuses on maximising the quality of the residential experience.

Fewer units do not automatically guarantee lower density, privacy or appreciation. Support these points with actual project plans and specifications.

5. Sell the complete package, not the price alone

Don't lead with discounts. Compare the complete product against similar developments:

Investment factor	What the broker should demonstrate
Entry price	Actual price relative to comparable developments
Apartment layout	Practical use of space and the floor plan
Ceiling height	Actual approved specifications
Lobby and common areas	Design and finishing quality
Amenities	Quality, quantity and variety
Unit count	Residential density and experience
Developer delivery	Completed and handed-over projects
Payment plan	Instalments and construction milestones
Resale potential	Historical transactions and comparable data

> “ The question isn't simply how much the apartment costs. It's how much quality, space, lifestyle and long-term value you receive for that price.

6. Construction-linked payments mean transparency

In selected payment structures, instalments follow the agreed construction schedule (at 113 Residences, for example, 10% is due at 40% construction). Buyers can see how their payments relate to progress on site.

Always use the latest officially approved payment plan. Do not claim that every instalment is construction-linked, or that nothing is due unless construction has progressed.

7. Demonstrate quality through completed projects

Clients who cannot visit Dubai need visual proof. Use Oxford 212: building exterior, entrance and lobby, interior details, corridors and lifts, amenities, rooftop and finishing standards, ideally in a real walkthrough.

Show completed-project footage before renders of the new development, and keep completed-project features apart from the specifications of the project on offer.

8. Use past performance carefully

Compare original purchase prices, verified resale prices, documented rental performance, comparable market prices, and service charges and other ownership costs. Show Oxford 212's appreciation with actual verified transactions, not an unsupported percentage.

Past performance does not guarantee future returns.

> " We don't want you to rely only on future projections. We want you to examine what has already been delivered and how selected IMAN properties have performed.

9. The presentation order for Japanese clients

1. IMAN's boutique philosophy
2. Completed projects and delivery history
3. Actual quality, layouts and amenities
4. Comparison with similar properties in the same price range
5. Payment schedule, SPA, escrow, handover and buying process, from official documents
6. Available inventory and questions, before discussing booking

Japanese investors value clarity, accuracy and verifiable information. Avoid exaggerated claims, aggressive closing and unsupported promises; give a clean pack with floor plans, specifications, verified prices and legal documents. Build confidence through evidence, transparency and consistency.

Confirm specifications, prices, payment plans, inventory and discounts from the latest official release. Use its small scale to explain IMAN's philosophy, not to imply guaranteed scarcity-driven appreciation.

Recommended closing

After presenting the track record and value, ask:

> " Based on what you've seen, would you prefer a studio focused on rental income at Dubai Science Park, or a larger apartment at 113 Residences that balances rental demand with future resale?

Use the answer to choose the unit type, then present verified availability, the official payment plan and the full purchase costs. Guide the investor to a suitable choice; don't push for an immediate booking.

The pitch: what brokers tell clients

"Let me explain why IMAN Developers is worth considering for your investment in Dubai.

IMAN is not a developer focused on building thousands of apartments. It's a boutique developer that believes in quality over quantity: premium design, practical layouts, elegant lobbies, high-quality finishes and exceptional amenities at competitive entry prices.

What makes IMAN particularly interesting is its proven delivery record. It has handed over nine projects, so you can evaluate real buildings rather than rely on future promises.

When you buy an IMAN property, you're investing in a thoughtfully designed residential environment, from the entrance lobby to the apartment and the amenities. And we want you to compare the actual quality and value against similar properties in Dubai.

Affordable luxury. Quality over quantity. A complete lifestyle experience."

FINAL MESSAGE FOR BROKERS

Don't sell IMAN as the cheapest developer.

Premium quality + lifestyle amenities + thoughtful design + competitive entry price + delivered track record

This is the foundation of IMAN Developers' affordable luxury positioning.
